Work camp group

The group that has been built up by the IVSP team during the last 17 months and has during that time worked on alternate Sundays, and has also organised five week-end camps, has during this month worked on one Sunday and also organised two week-end camps. These two week-end camps were used as an opportunity for this group to get together with the group that was formed from Berlin students after the camp at the Technical University last summer, and who have been doing similar work at week-ends. Now that Bob Bird who was friend and guide to this group from the Technical University has returned to America, and the FSC team will be unable to give any time to helping them, the IVSP team have agreed to give what help and support they can to their work, and the friendly contact started by these two work-camps together during January is a good beginning to this co-operation. During this month negotiations have been started with the Sozialamt Schöneberg with regard to an International Work-Camp in March. The work will be putting in order children's playgrounds that have been badly damaged or neglected through the war.
