11. Yugoslavia

The IC hoped that the Dutch branch would keep in touch with youth leaders in Yugoslavia but did not deem it wise to plan for a service in 1959. The IC should be kept informed as official contacts developed. It was suggested that an exchange of volunteers between Yugoslavia and West Europe (particular Holland) be encouraged, but Tino Cirelli (who had been in Yugoslavia on behalf of SCI) said he would not recommend SCI sending volunteers to work in the international brigade, as this pattern of activity did not lead itself to promoting SCI ideals. The Committee agreed.
