Dear Bertram,

I have just received a letter from Wolf inviting me at the meeting of the German Committee next Sunday at Göttingen. I have also received a card from Chris saying that he will arrive on Saturday night (23.48 h) and will have to leave at 14.33 on Sunday. This puts me in a rather difficult situation as, not having the exact time of the meeting, I had already made previous arrangement with the Secretary of the European Working Group to meet him Saturday night and arrive in Göttingen on Sunday at 10.55, so that we can have at least a few hours all together. As the time for both of us in Göttingen is short, it would be very helpful if you could possibly find someone with a car who could take Chris and myself from and to the station at Göttingen.

For your information, I shall be at the CoCo meeting in Paris Friday and Saturday morning and you could let me have any message there if necessary. I am sending a copy of this letter to Chris, explaining the situation.

I am looking forward with great pleasure to meet you again and I hope that a clear discussion will make it possible to clarify some difficult problems in the best SCI spirit.

Best wishes,

Roger Briottet
